

Interested in Journalism?

Attend the Journalists of Tomorrow Summer Camp

WHO: Romanian High School Students
WHAT: Summer 2009 Journalism Camp
WHERE: A.I. Cuza Industrial High School, Barlad, Jud. Vaslui
WHEN: July 18-25, 2009
HOW: Email BarladJournalismCamp@gmail.com or call Zack Baddorf at 0749617478 for an application form

Approved by the Ministry of Education, this English language camp will include classes on news writing, feature writing, interviewing, photography, independent media, and gender in the media. Romanian high school teachers, national and local journalists, and U.S. Peace Corps volunteers will teach these courses during the week-long summer camp.

Guests also scheduled to attend include officials from the U.S. Embassy in Bucharest, U.S. Peace Corps country director Ken Goodson, the Barlad mayor, and the Judetul Vaslui inspectorate.

Cultural activities are also planned, including traditional dancing and food from the different regions of Romania.

Students will be expected to pay a 100 RON fee to participate as well as their own transportation costs. All meals and accommodation (inside a gender-separated school dormitory) will be provided. Financial aid, including transportation costs, will be available to a small number of students based on need.

Application Deadline:
March 30, 2009.